Cal Poly to Build Solar Farm as Part of Net Zero Plan

Cal Poly will break ground this summer on a solar farm that will generate renewable energy, create Learn by Doing opportunities for students and save the university millions of dollars. The facility, to be built next to Highway 1 on the western side of campus, will be financed, designed, constructed and maintained by REC Solar. The 18.5-acre solar farm is slated for completion in winter 2017. It will include more than 16,000 individual solar panels with a capacity of 4.5 megawatts (AC) and will generate more than 11 million kWh per year — enough to power more than 1,000 homes, or about 25 percent of Cal Poly's total needs. The energy produced by the solar farm will also result in direct savings on Cal Poly's utility bills totaling about $17 million over 20 years.

Retirements

Karen Weller, manager of special projects for the Administration and Finance Division, will retire April 30 after more than 28 years of service. A graduate of Cal Poly, Weller started as a business systems analyst/programmer in ITS, where she became the coordinator of business systems. After earning her master's and project management professional certification, she managed implementation projects such as the Student Pay System, T2, PeopleAdmin, ImageNow, and Absence Management and led the effort on the ABC Fall Summits. Join us to celebrate her retirement from 3 to 4 p.m. Thursday, April 27, in the Administration Building (No. 1), Room 133.

Catastrophic Leave

Kristina Wong, administrative support coordinator II in the College of Science and Mathematics — Kinesiology, has qualified for catastrophic leave. Those wishing to donate leave credits to help her remain in full-pay status during an extended leave of absence should contact Julia Jones at ext. 6-2546 or jjone104@calpoly.edu to request a donation form.
